Electrical Engr & Computer Sci

Electrical Engineering And Computer Science (EECS)

For any EECS course, the EECS department may give away a student's seat in a class if the student does not attend the first week of lectures and labs/discussions. In addition, it is up to the discretion of the course instructor to determine whether or not to allow a student to enroll in an EECS course after the first week of classes.

Note that the EECS department may withdraw you from the class, but the department is not obligated to withdraw students from the course even if a student has been informed that his/her seat is no longer available. Students are responsible for the accuracy of their own schedules.

Teaching Mus Comp K-12

For students enrolled in the Summer Music Education Masters program only.

The ultimate goal of ensemble performance, at any age, is to achieve maximum artistry. The most informed artistic performances require a delicate balance of musicianship and technical precision from both the conductor and performers. Often, this intersection of art and pedagogy is assumed as an innate skill, when in reality it is not.

Likewise, it is assumed that age, ability level or genre make this intersection unachievable because of relaxed standards. Quite simply, all ensembles (beginning through collegiate wind ensembles, concert bands, marching bands, jazz bands, chamber winds, etc.) can achieve the highest level of artistry. This workshop will present a detailed curricular approach, applicable at all ages, ability levels, and genres, to achieve maximum artistry through technical instruction. We will use The Directed Listening Model?, an artistic framework that:

3. Enables conductors to evaluate and address instrumental pedagogy in rehearsal settings
4. Enables maximum artistry within rehearsal and performance

Teach Mus Exceptionality
For students enrolled in the Summer Music Education Masters program only.

This workshop is geared toward music educators who are presented the challenge of producing a full-scale musical. Preparing and conducting a musical presents particular challenges to both the music educator and the student. Explore the specifics of preparing a pit orchestra such as: reducing orchestrations, negotiating reed doublings, the use of professional ringers, handwritten scores, making cuts and changes, and dealing with the musical challenges. In addition, there will be an overview of appropriate vocal health strategies useful for both teacher and student.

For students enrolled in the Summer Music Education Masters program only.

In this workshop, we will explore how mindfulness can benefit you in personal, interpersonal, artistic, and educational settings. We will learn about mindfulness through readings, discussions, and through engaging in selected group and individual practices. This workshop is geared toward educators in K-12, private studio, and collegiate settings. Participants will gain a practical understanding of the scientific and philosophical foundations of mindfulness and develop strategies for applying these strategies in classroom and studio settings.

This workshop is taught by guest faculty Dr. Frank Diaz of Indiana University

Identity/Intersect in Pop Mus

While most scholars agree that music reflects the particular time and place from which it originates, some would go so far as to argue that, in some circumstances, music can also act as the driving force behind shifts in social mores and attitudes. Scholars of popular music point to the role played by music in such events as the civil rights and anti-war movements as examples of its power to enact social change. In this course, we will examine how popular music has challenged (and sometimes reinforced) existing attitudes about personal identity over the past five decades through its myriad representations of gender, sexuality, race, culture, aging, disability, and so on. Our discussions will be intersectional in nature and will examine, for example, how gendered identities (and gendered oppression) are experienced differently according to race or how racial identities (and racial oppression) is altered or amplified when sexual identity is added to the mix. Readings chosen from the popular music literature will help to construct each identity and to frame its intersections with other identities from a scholarly point of view. We will extrapolate our findings to music education and will discuss the impact of popular representations (or non-representations) of various identities on students as they begin to forge their own identities. Students will also be asked to select an artist, song, or genre for close study as this contributes to our understanding of intersectionality. At the heart of the class is the question of how music can effect social change - a topic that will be of interest to music educators who hope to connect music to the student's broader cultural experience. For students enrolled in the Summer Music Education Masters program only.
